

Have you experienced harm in a healthcare setting?

If so, university researchers would like to hear your experience.
We are seeking people from different backgrounds.

We are looking for adults:

- Who have experienced psychological or physical harm from any care or treatment they received from the NHS in the last 5 years.
- From ethnic, religious, gender and sexual minorities, and disabled people.

Why is this study important?

Diverse community voices are not often heard in research studies, and so, there is limited understanding of relevant issues to prevent harm and to better support people from these groups following harm.

How can I find out more?

Please contact researchers, Lavanya Thana and Helen Crocker, on:

07849 310 428 or healthcare.experiences@lshtm.ac.uk

People who are invited to participate in the interviews will be given a voucher in gratitude for their time. Please note, not everyone who responds to the advert can be invited to take part in the study.